MUS 792

Part I: Young Band Programming for Success

(Utilizing Standard Repertoire and Finding New Gems)

Michael Sweeney, Hal Leonard Corporation

Part II: Expanding Horizons: World Music in the Bandroom

Music is at its best when it breaks down barriers of language, nationality, religion and race. This "universal language" can help us discover a common bond with cultures from around the globe, and help foster tolerance and understanding in ourselves and our students. This clinic offers an introduction to music from other lands, and connects these styles to practical uses in programming for today's bands. Michael Sweeney, Hal Leonard Corporation

Requirement: 1) Submit an on-line synopsis of what you gleaned from Michael Sweeney's clinics and how you might use any of it in your teaching, OR 2) Submit to Rolf.Olson@northern.edu, a project that you are working on for this upcoming school year, i.e., new curriculum, band arrangement, handbook, etc. Check with Rolf to make sure the project meets the requirement.
